

What's My Fancy?

Earn the most points to show how well you know the persons sitting next to you.

Instructions:

Get into groups of four or five. One person reads each statement in the boxes below as the others in the group try to guess how he or she will complete them. After the person reveals their choice, whoever guessed correctly gets the number of points given to that box. After completing all six boxes, the next person in the group reads each of the statements while the others try to guess his or her preferences (fancies). Continue until everyone in the group goes through each of the six boxes. The one with the most points at the end wins the game.
